Welcome to Draw Like Me

Thank you for purchasing DrawLikeMe Valentine edition that will teach you basic and powerful techniques used by professional artists on a daily basis. We hope you enjoy it and make this an experience you and your whole family can enjoy.

Andy Horrocks has been a long time friend of mine and has been cartooning for over 30 years. I want to thank Andy for sharing his techniques and hope that they will inspire new and aspiring artists to discover self-expression through drawing.

I would also like to thank Olga Chranowsky for putting all this together in a format that's easy to use and understand.

Please send us your comments and suggestions on what you want to see next.

How to Draw Cupid

How to Draw Cupid

- 1) First step, draw two(2) circles. Let them overlap on one shape. They should look like a figure eight. Remember, don't draw them in one motion, use a series of lines, sketch them out.

- 2) Next draw a curved line down the center of both circles. Then add two(2) curved lines to each side of the joining circles.

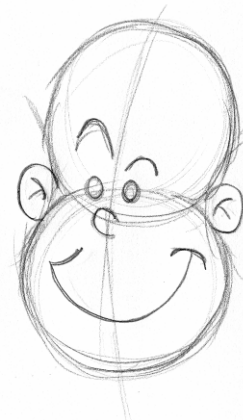

- 3) Now in the lower circle, add a small circle for the nose. Then go a little above it and draw two(2) more round circles for the eyes. Don't forget to sketch them out. Next for the ears, go to each side of the head and make two(2) more circles.

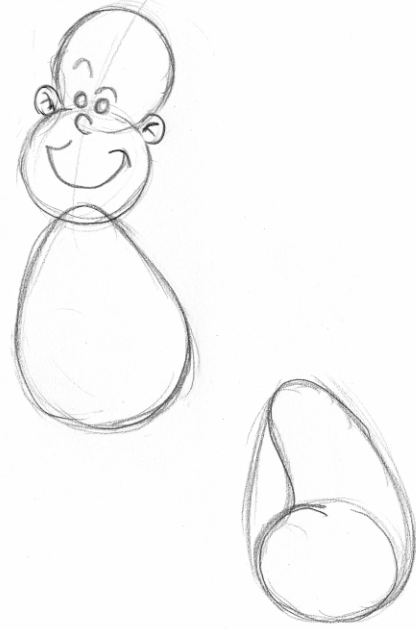

- 4) Go back to the ears and add two curved lines. Now over the eyes add some more curved lines, one slightly higher than the other.

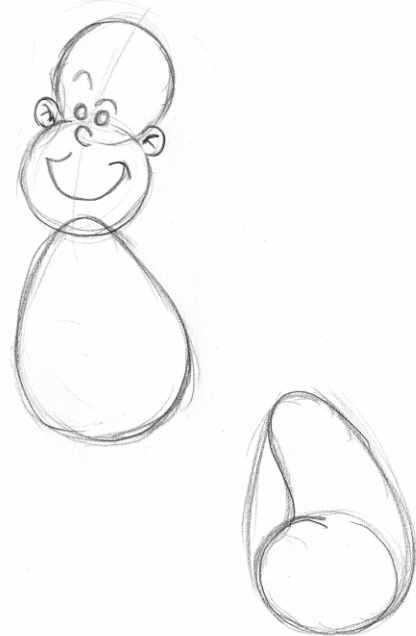

Next, add a mouth. Start near the nose, make a small curve, then curve downwards in the opposite direction and come up. Now top it off with a curve on the end.

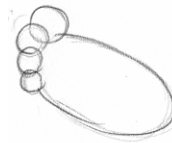

5) To make the body, add a pear shape under the head. Next, round out the bottom with a circle and arch out the back.

6) To make the legs, thighs. Start around the lower circle and make an upside down triangle shape.

7) To finish the legs and feet.
Make a long oval shape from the bottom of the thigh where the knee would be then add a smaller one on top for the foot. To Make the toes, place a series of 4 smaller circles, each one smaller than the last.

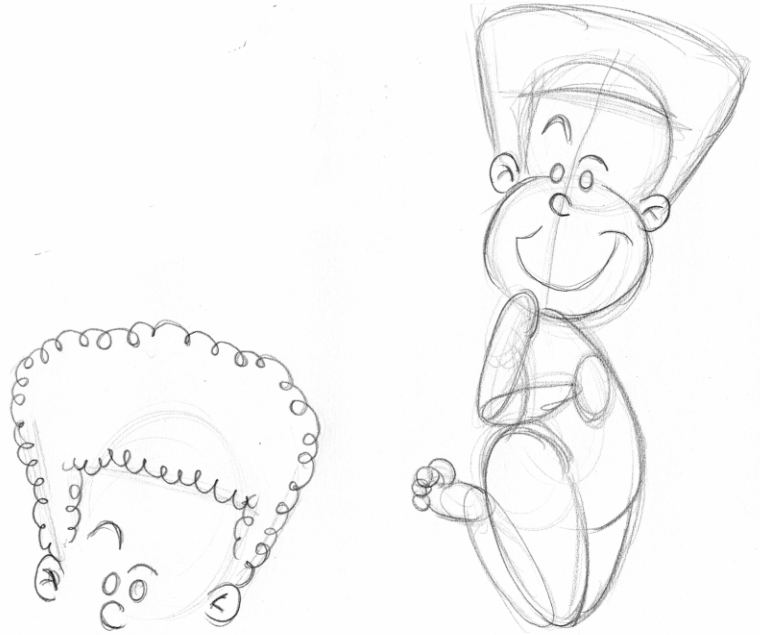

8) To make the arms, draw two(2) more long oval shapes, one near the chin and about half way down the body. And the other, horizontal and attached to the one you just made.

Next, draw a smaller oval to the end for the hand. Now, add three(3) waves to form a fist.

9) Now add some hair, roughly trace out the area where you want the hair to go. Then retrace these lines with a curly cloud like line.

10) Add some simple wings on each side of the body using some wavy lines.

Then a bow using curved lines. You can add a ribbon if you like.

11) Last, retrace the lines you made, and reshape the character to your own taste.

Next, erase those unwanted construction lines.
